WAS UNDER AN IRON PORCH

One Cross Remains Hidden on Brightwood Road and Defies Army of Searchers.

Only one of the five envelopes marked with the Maltese Cross, and containing an order on The Times for crisp, new greenbacks remains undiscovered. Wil-usually quiet, was thronged with a crowd of eager, excited searchers, who, fearful that some one would discover the hiding place before them, hurried over the ground, scanning every inch as carefully as their rapid progress allowed, and then returned, covering the suddenly popular district more thoroughly. Over 50 per cent of the crowd were supplied with sharp sticks, with which they pried into small nooks and crannies which could not be reached with their hands. The rest of the crowd, remembering that each of the other envelopes was wrapped up in old pieces of tin, or the like, devoted most of their time to old tin cans, paper bags, anything and everything in which an envelope might be hidden.

Searchers Are Suspicious.

It is a suspicious crowd-those people who are searching in the Brightwood Each fortune hunter regards the searcher at his side with distrustful eyes. This is due to the fact that every stranger is strongly suspected of being the reporter who hid the envelope, is searching merely as a On more than one occasion within two feet of the hidden money with street southwest, he uncovered the but they did not know it. One man was seen prying into a crevice with a crooked wire, who had no idea that he could have reached the envelope without moving from his tracks. He was a thorough searcher and looked every of the process of the envelope with a crooked wire, who had no idea that he could have reached the envelope without moving from his tracks. He was a thorough searcher and looked every of the place in the designated section, and I reasoned it out that I was about due to find it. Starting at the corner I jig when I found it," said he, when speaking of his luck. "It's the first limit I ever found anything, and I mighty near had a fit."

Meant Very Little.

could have reached the envelope without moving from his tracks. He was a thorough searcher and looked every place in the vicinity but the right one.
Finally he walked off, exploring as he went, but without result. He, together, with the other searchers, went home to a late supper, disappointed, but not disheartened.

All the searchers seem to believe in the adage, "If at first you don't succeed, try, try again." As each of the few who were willing to abandon the search for a meal went home to their luncheon, he announced his intention of eating only a "snack," and returning.
Meanwhile the money lies waiting a claimant, much sought for, but as yet unfound.

Simmonds, of 431 Sixth street southwest, found one of the envelopes containing an order for $15 at an early hour this morning, under the iron porch of 721 Seventh street southwest. His lucky find was the reward of determined search, and he declares that he is well repaid for the two days which he spent in the work.

Somewhere on Brightwood road, between Harvard and Sheridan streets, there is another envelope containing another order. Daily big crowds congregate between the two streets and look here, there, and everywhere, but without result. No one has as yet been able to discover the hiding place of the elusive envelope, and it still lies within reach of all, awaiting a finder.

Went Out to Brightwood.

When the news that the order hidden in the Southwest section became generally known this morning, incre was a noticeable influx of searchers to Brightwood road. By noon the street, usually quiet, was thronged with a crowd of eager, excited searchers, who, fearfull that some one would discover the finding place of the clusive envelope. The second part, which is divided into six numbers, opens with a one-act humorous negro sketch, followed by Nikias Scholzonyi and his Hungarian Hussar Concert Band of forty, after which Mr. Primrose will be followed by "The Coon in the Moon."

"The Princess Chic."

Seats for the engagement of the Princess Chic Opera Company, with Sophie Brandt as prima donna, will be placed on sale at the Lafayette today. There are more than twenty lyrics and ensemble numbers in the three acts of the opera. Julian Edwards is the composer of the music, and those who have heard this opera assent that it have poser of the music, and those who have heard this opera assert that, in this score, he offers the most ambitious and effective work in his long career. Among Mr. Edwards' other successes will be remembered "The Wedding Day," "Brian Borou," "The Magic Kiss," and "The Jolly Musketeers." The libretto of "The Princess Chic" is from the pen of Kirke LaShelle, the proprietor of the company. Mr. LaShelle is a trained newspaper man, and even back in the days when he was managing editor of the Chicago Mail his poems were widely known and quoted.

Delmore and Oneida will present Japanese perching poses. Carlin and Otto, the German comedians; Jules Hickey and Amy Nelson, in "Twisted and Tangled;" the Three Dumonds, Parisian street singers, and comic motion pictures fill up the measure of seasonable offerings.

At the Academy next week the offering will be "After Midnight," which is said to be a vivid picture of the dark side of life after the hour of midnight in a big city. The scenes are laid in New York's notorious "Tenderloin,"

New York's notorious "Tenderloin," where millions of dollars are supposed to flow like water every year in riotous dissipation, and expert criminals eke out a luxurious existence.

The cast is headed by Jack Webster, supported by W. F. Canfield, Adolphe Lestina, Mark Harrison, George Whitman, Joseph Redman, Master Billy Gavagan, Arthur Wells, Mable Garrison, Ella Ringquist, Louise Barthel, Johanna Brook, Ella Beldini, Edna Toler, Eloise Davis, Minna Ferry, Marie Stanwell, and others.

More Moving Pictures.

A program as original as the former ones presented by Shepard's moving pictures at the Academy on Sunday evenings, is announced by this same evenings, is announced by this same management next Sunday night. "Clarence the Cop," the parable of "The Prodigal Son," "Logging in Canada," "The Great Hunt," "Spurned by Her Father," scenes from "Beautiful Killarney," "Uncle Tom's Cabin," and "The Girl and the Wolf," are among the scenes advertised.

Carr's "Thoroughbreds."

The attraction at the Lyceum next week will be Frank B. Carr's company, "The Thoroughbreds." Two farces will The Thoroughbreds," Two farces will be presented—"Looking for a Duke" and "The Thoroughbreds on a Lark"—and the olio will include Washburn and Flynn, the Dancing Mitchells, Mile, La-Toska, the Unique Trio, Tim Healey, the Feur Thoroughbreds, Willie Weston, and Franklin and Hopkins.
